

Whose child is it? - parenting with purpose

Parents are faced with more and more challenges when bringing up their children. This is not necessarily down to bad parenting or even an absent parent, but a combination of factors. Once upon a time not so long ago although parenting and the role of parenting didn't come with a handbook or instructions the community played a major role in raising the children in the community.

In order to encourage parents to carry out their role of a parenting with responsibility and integrity it is necessary to support and encourage parents to nurture support, socialise and encourage and impact on the mindsets of their children.

Taking Positive Steps provides training for parents who:

- Have children involved in antisocial behaviour
- Have children that are at risk of exclusion from school
- Have children that are at risk of becoming involved in gangs
- Have children who display low confidence
- Are given parenting orders by the courts

We also educate parents around:

- Safeguarding children - a parent's responsibility
- Every Child Matters - how to encourage and support your child to reach the five outcomes

We also provide support for parents to ensure they are able to be proactive in engaging with the education system.

Course content

We are able to provide a tailored programme in order to meet the needs of the service user and the commissioners. Please get in touch for further information.